

More Help Needed At Pahokee Office To Handle The Mail

Seasonal Increase In Patrons Swamps Clerks Of Institution

Mrs. S. E. Gammage, assistant postmaster at the Pahokee office, appeared before the Pahokee

Chamber of Commerce Monday night and asked its assistance in correcting a labor shortage at the local post office which is likely to delay mail service with the approach of the holiday season. The unusually heavy migration of transient labor to this area, attracts not only by farming and packing house work, but also by the government levee rebuilding and State Farmer's Market project, has swelled the total patronage at the post office to 10,000 persons, she said.

The chamber instructed Secretary Archie Harris to wire the assistant postmaster general, and Congressman Pat Cannon asking for quick relief of the situation. A reply from Cannon Tuesday morning promised immediate action.

Mayor John A. Dulany asked the Chamber for an expression of its attitude toward the establishment of a migratory labor camp by the Farm Security Board in this area, as recently proposed in a resolution by city council. The Chamber voted to endorse the camp and instructed the secretary to send a copy of the endorsement to the Farm Security Board.

It was reported by the Community Chest Organization, another project endorsed by the Chamber, was receiving insufficient support from brokers and farmers whose business activities are the chief attractions to migratory labor which in turn is the principal beneficiary of the Chest's funds. It was decided a meeting of brokers and farmers in the Pahokee-Canal Point area be called at an early date at which time representatives of the city of Pahokee, the Chamber of Commerce and the Community Chest will present facts showing the need of a Community Chest and attempt to gain closer cooperation from brokers and farmers in supporting

Festival Is Planned For Blue Devil And Wildcat Encounter

WPB Merchants Plan Big Day For Supporters Of Hobsonmen

A gala celebration is planned in West Palm Beach for Thursday, December 7, when the Pahokee high school football team goes to town for the Pahokee-Palm Beach game.

The event is sponsored by the merchants' association and will be known as Glades Festival day, according to William Porter, secretary. Festivities will begin at 2 p. m., with a parade, followed by a barbecue at Wright field at 5:30 p. m., when all visitors from the Everglades section will be guests of local businessmen.

A football battle between Pahokee and the Wildcats is always a choice morsel for sports fans throughout the county, and it is expected that the game will attract the largest crowd of the season.

Florida issued 28,285 fishing licenses last year and collected $67,617 in fees. The number of licenses issued shows a marked increase over the previous year, indicating greater interest in sport fishing.

Fort Pierce Holds Hobsonmen To Tie In A Hectic Battle

Bit Beebe And Company Hold Blue Devils To 13-13 Score

Lady Luck smiled on Coach Hobson's Pahokee Blue Devils in the last half on an encounter with Fort Pierce last Friday night on Laid field in Pahokee. To say that they were smiling is putting it just a bit mild. To the major portion of the fans it really looked like she laughed right out loud.

It all happened when the Fort Pierce aggregation trotted out a small chap by the name of Bit Beebe—who wouldn't weigh more than 120 pounds soaking wet—to amass 13 points during the first half of the battle while the Blue Devils were chalking up exactly nothing. When the half ended it looked bad for the Glades gridders. In fact it looked like there was to be another loss chalked up for the crippled eleven of Hobson.

But, Lady Luck was kind. Very kind indeed. In the third quarter the local aggregation made up its mind that something had to be done. And that something was done.

Near the end of the third period Peacock returned a punt 28 yards to the Pahokee 48, and from there Kautz and Dell worked their way to the Fort Pierce eight. The Eagles held for three plays, and a fourth down pass was touched by Eagle defender, but it was knocked into the hands of Belyeu, who gained a first down on the two yard line. Then Dell went over center to score, and a Kautz went over right guard for the point. And the score read: Fort Pierce 13, Pahokee 7.

Late in the quarter Fort Pierce forced Pahokee back to the Blue Devil 30 and Calvin Peacock, in punt formation, fumbled the ball on his own 40-yard line. It was too late to kick and ran, finally ending up after a 94-yard scramble with the touchdowns which tied the score. Dell plunged just short of the winning point.

After that Fort Pierce launched an aerial attack which threw fear into the hearts of the Blue Devil supporters, for the Eagles clicked on three passes for gains of 22, 15 and 23 yards, carrying to the Pahokee five yard line when the game ended.

Chile will increase its postal rates to provide earthquake relief funds.

Homestead Happy Again As Sunshine Peaks Thru Clouds

Lower Dade Farmers Are Anxious To Get In The Fields After Rains

The sky brightened Thursday morning, the sun shone through the gloomy, rain-filled clouds of the past few weeks, optimism over the nation's largest winter vegetable region took an upsurge as growers set their great planting operations into action, and thousands of laborers got back into the fields.

Thirty days later than that of the average season of recent years are the 1939 plantings. Torrential rains drowned out the early sowing and then the wet weather hung on to delay the plantings.

In general, the growers view the delayed season with little concern. Naturally, delay in planting will mean delay in picking and marketing. Eighty days growing time will be needed for tomatoes, and the greens and pekins will not begin to roll in any quantity before the middle of February while the shipping began just after Christmas last year. Yet the prices received, over the season average, no doubt will compare favorably this season with those of past seasons—perhaps the expected 10¢ price per pound in February will be missed.

The ground was still a little wet but almost every grower had his negroes in the field this week. 12,000 acres are being planted in tomatoes, 7400 in potatoes.

Potato planters, three weeks delayed, with their power equipment will run twenty-four hours a day. It won't take long to drop the carloads of seed potatoes.

Preparing land is in progress for the third major crop of the area, beans. An estimated 2,000 acres will be planted.—Redland District News, Homestead.

The Florida Congress of Democracy was organized in Miami last week under the direction of Collin English, state superintendent of public instruction, and is designed to promote and teach the ideals of democracy through programs and meetings in schools and communities.

Mrs. Sam Chastain Reads Interesting Paper On Tropical Plants Before Community Garden Club

The Community Garden Club held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. W. P. Jernigan Tuesday afternoon, in Canal Point. Mrs. G. Lawson Sims and Mrs. Harold Rosenberg were hostesses for the day.

Mrs. T. M. Dechman and Mrs. Sam Chastain were in charge of the "Fruit and Flower Arrangements for Thanksgiving." Mrs. Sam Chastain read a paper on "Tropical Trees and Fruits," and Mrs. T. M. Dechman spoke on our "Native Vegetables." Mrs. A. Hansen, president, presided at the business meeting.

Two new members were received in the club, Mrs. O. B. McClure and Mrs. Beth Roberts. It was decided to set up the December meeting one week because of the Christmas holidays. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. A. L. Pope, Canal Point, Dec. 12, at 2:30 p. m.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Guests were Mrs. J. H. Bordeaux and Mrs. E. J. Vent. Members present were: Mrs. A. Hansen, Mrs. Sam Chastain, Mrs. A. L. Dulany, Mrs. J. S. Harrington, Mrs. V. C. Denton, Mrs. G. Lawson Sims, Mrs. W. P. Jernigan, Mrs. L. M. Dechman, Mrs. Robert Chamberlain, Mrs. A. L. Pope, Mrs. H. J. Anderson, Mrs. George Bell, Mrs. C. G. Colburn, Mrs. J. W. Barrett, Mrs. Ben Ward, Mrs. G. W. Hudson, Mrs. Julia Bennett, Mrs. D. C. Thompson, Mrs. A. W. Fowler, Mrs. E. L. Pope, Mrs. L. W. Weeks, Mrs. S. B. Roberts, Mrs. A. O. McGuire, Mrs. Jernigan, Mrs. E. J. Vent, Mrs. Frank Shaugnessy, Mrs. E. G. Kilpatrick, Mrs. P. G. White, and Mrs. H. L. Speer.

The paper read by Mrs. Sam Chastain follows:

Of the many tropical varieties to be found among Florida plants, perhaps the least known, although among the most exotic, is the Chinese Light tree. It can be grown to a height of 50 feet, and has a low spreading crown and heavy trunk. The foliage is evergreen and glossy; the newer flowers of an orange color. In April the pale green flowers are borne on long terminal panicles.

Fruit of the Light, which is dry has a shell-like covering and hence has to be known commercially as a nut, has for centuries been considered a royal fruit in China and quite a delicacy over here. The fresh fruit is oval shaped about 1 1/2 inches long, and ripens in June to a bright red, with a pebbly skin which causes it to resemble a magnified strawberry. The pulp is juicy and has a delicious and appealing flavor.

Propagation is by seed and grafting. The rooting medium, cuttings should be composed of a sand and muck mixture, the whole enclosed in a plastic bag.

Let us now take the Ambarrin Islands (a group of islands in the South Pacific Ocean), which is grown in a limited way in the most frost-free part of Florida.

Under optimum conditions the tree grows to a height of 50 feet. The pinnae leaves, clustered near the branch ends, are 8 to 10 inches in length, and the leaflets 11 to 13 in number are oval-oblong. The whitish flowers are borne in long panicles. The fruits, ripening in June, are oval to oblong and somewhat resemble a large plum. They are yellowish in color when ripe and the flesh is firm and juicy. It varies from acid to sweet, according to variety. The single large seed is best with numerous spines which prevent removal of the pulp used in making preserves. Propagation is by seed and shield budding.

Next might come the Tamarind, which thrives only in the soils of southern areas and is susceptible to cold injury. The tree is of immense size and its widely spreading branches and intricate foliage give it a decidedly ornamental value. The fruit, maturing in summer, is a slightly curved, plump, reddish-brown berry, long and with a brittle shell. The pulp is of pleasing acid flavor and is used for flavoring products. The seeds are used for beverages. Propagation is usually by seed, but desirable fruiting sorts may be obtained from small stock plants of the same species.

The Governor's Plum is certainly worthy of mention, especially for use as a table screen, as it is shrubby in growth habit. The branches are spiny and the foliage is quite heavy, deep green and glossy. The fruits resemble small plums or crabapples in shape, and in color are deep red. The fruit is small, and is so sensitive to frost that it is not reliable for use as a table screen.

An excellent juice can be made from the fruit. To insure fruitfulness, several plants should be planted together to effect cross-pollination. Propagation is by seed. Mr. H. J. Anderson has a very handsome specimen. Governor's Plum to one side of his house on Bacon Point road.

The Carabola tree is quite tropical in appearance and attains a height of 25 to 30 feet. This is a very beautiful tree and is very symmetrical. The leaves are small, and are so sensitive to frost that they fold up when touched or when darkness comes over here. The fresh fruit is oval shaped about 1 1/2 inches long, and ripens in June to a bright red, with a pebbly skin which causes it to resemble a magnified strawberry. The pulp is juicy and has a delicious and appealing flavor.

Propagation is by seed and grafting. The rooting medium, cuttings should be composed of a sand and muck mixture, the whole enclosed in a plastic bag.

Let us now take the Ambarrin Islands (a group of islands in the

when ripe. Propagation is mainly by seeds. The Carissa or Natal Plum, is a native of South Africa, is at home most anywhere in Florida. It is an evergreen shrub with a dense, bushy growth habit and hedge planting. As a hedge it forms an almost impenetrable barrier. Scrubby and dense in growth habit, the plant does not become tree shaped even at a height of 13 feet. The foliage is dark glossy green, and the branches are heavily armed with strong two-pointed spines. The fragrant white flowers are conspicuous against the lovely background. The dark red fruits mature in summer and are eaten fresh in salads and as a sauce. The flavor is suggestive of the raspberry. Propagation is mostly by seeds.

The Saurim Cherry, native of Brazil, is also grown extensively in Florida as an ornamental or eating fruit. The foliage is evergreen, glossy and green to reddish in color.

The ribbed fruits, pendent on a slender stem, contain only one large seed and are juicy, spicy and eaten in color. The cherry is eaten fresh in salads and used in making jellies and sherbets. Propagation is by seed and cleft grafting.

Bartymore Tops Ace Cast In "On Borrowed Time"

With Bartymore giving one of the greatest performances of his thirty years in motion pictures, as Gramp, "On Borrowed Time" tells a story of an old grandfather who desperately fights death in order to prevent the grandson he adores from falling into the clutches of a scheming unscrupulous agent.

Sir Cedric Hardwicke, distinguished British stage and screen personality, appears as the mysterious stranger; Mr. Brink, personification of Death. Beulah Bondi is the devoted Granny, and Bob Watson, most talked-of child actor of the year, plays the young grandson, Pud.

In the role of the lovable old, hard-bitten, out-spoken Gramp, Lionel Barrymore is said to give the finest characterization of his legendary career. This is the role which Dudley Digges created in the Broadway stage version which ran for forty weeks at the Longacre Theatre.

Was Law Student:

Turned To Acting

Gordon Oliver, seen as a young lawyer in Columbia's thrilling drama, "A Woman Is the Judge," is currently portraying what he might have been if he had not found the footlights more interesting than legal tomes.

After graduation from Oregon State College, Oliver enrolled in the law school of the University of Southern California, with the intention of becoming an attorney but he was engaged to play a part in the stage play of "Elizabeth the Queen" and never returned to the USC campus.

Oliver appears with Frieda Inescort, Otto Kruger, Rochelle Hudson Mayo Method, Arthur Loft and Walter Penner in "A Woman Is the Judge."
